

Travelling safely to work on public transport

This guidance applies to all forms of public transport in the UK.

From Monday 18 May, the London Congestion charge and ULEZ resumed.

1. Avoid travel if possible

Travel hierarchy of control
If you are experiencing illness symptoms, you must not travel. Follow government guidelines on self-isolation.
Eliminate	Do not travel on public transport unless you have to.		Wash your hands before and after travelling.
Reduce or isolate	Speak to your line manager to see if it is possible to adjust start and finish times to allow off-peak travel.		Give yourself plenty of time so you do not need to rush. The front and back of trains, tubes and trams may be less crowded.
Control PPE or discipline	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Wear a face covering • Keep two metres apart • Carry a hand sanitiser • Use a contactless payment method

2. Plan your journey

Consider all other forms of transport before using public transport.

Before and during your journey, check with your transport operator for the latest travel advice on your route.

Travel may take longer than normal on some routes, due to reduced capacity and social distancing measures. Allow enough time if your journey involves changes between different forms of transport.

Plan ahead by identifying alternative routes and options in case of unexpected disruption.
